

De-Escalating Aggressive and Combative Behavior

Many employees are tasked with working with or around potentially combative persons, including patients, residents and clients.

Workers have the right to feel safe in the workplace and should have the knowledge and resources to protect themselves if and when aggressive behavior is displayed. Want to know more?

Types of Aggressive Behavior

- Physical – Biting, kicking, hair-pulling, punching, grabbing, groping, spitting
- Verbal – Yelling, cursing, sexual, mental mind games

How to Avoid Triggering Aggressive Behavior

- Never turn your back on a patient or resident
- Keep your hands in full view at all times
- Avoid embarrassment
- Ask onlookers to leave
- Avoid distractions – use quiet places
- Listen and allow the person to vent or release verbally
- Offer choices
- Remain calm and do not rush
- Communicate your intentions

How to Avoid Non-Verbal Triggers

- Limit over-activity
- Avoid exaggerated gestures with hands or arms
- Honor the persons space and don't trap, corner or stand over them
- Avoid showing your own fear

How to Use Speech to De-Escalate

- Use simple and positive statements
- Tell the person what is going to happen
- Give instructions one at a time
- Maintain normal volume and rhythm
- Be reassuring and don't use threats
- Ask how you can help them
- Maintain eye level while speaking
- Redirect - provide other activity options or places if possible

Escaping an Attack Situation

- Protecting yourself and the resident/person is priority number one
- Know your personal limits and get help before it's too late
- Have an exit plan or way out
- Remove items nearby that can hurt the client or employee
- In extreme situations call 911 - emphasize client's condition and that there is no criminal behavior
